PRINCE GEORGE COUNTY VIRGINIA

Welcome to Prince George County, Virginia. If you are just visiting, we think you will find our County a fantastic place to live or locate a business. We believe our vision statement truly reflects our County, "A global community where families thrive and businesses prosper."

If you are one of the County's 37,000+ residents, you already know our County is a great place to live, work and raise a family.

When established in 1703, Prince George County encompassed an area from where the Appomattox River joins the James River, south and west to the North Carolina line and to the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Today this area is divided into 17 counties and 4 cities. Our County is rich in history from the first days of Captain John Smith's exploration of the new world through the Civil War. President Lincoln spent two weeks in Prince George County just before the fall of Petersburg and Richmond as the Civil War was ending.

Prince George County operates with five elected Supervisors under the traditional Board form of government. The Board has legislative responsibilities to include adopting ordinances and resolutions which govern the County. The Board also has administrative responsibilities such as levying taxes, establishing a budget, appropriating funds, and overseeing general County operations. A County Administrator oversees the day to day operations of the County. The Administrator, with the approval of the Board, has established Personnel Rules and Administrative Regulations for the County workforce to follow.

Prince George County is proud of its rural heritage. Our Comprehensive Plan recognizes this and works to preserve our farm land while designating specific areas in the northern portions of the County for business development. Our industrial park has many internationally known businesses. Just to name a few: ACE Hardware Distribution Center, Goya Foods Distribution Center, and the Rolls Royce Crosspointe Centre facility. We are also home to the Commonwealth Center for Advanced Manufacturing (CCAM). The industrial park is served by three Interstate Highways, US Route 460, the Port of Virginia and Norfolk Southern railroad which makes the transportation of products very easy in all directions. Prince George County is also the home of the Fort Lee Army Base.

On behalf of the Board of Supervisors and the County Administration, thank you for visiting our County. Whether you live here or are just visiting, we are certain Prince George County has much to offer.

Prince George County

On and after the 23rd day of April which shall be in the year of our Lord God, 1703 the said County of Charles City be divided into two distinct Counties so that James River divide the Same And that, that part of the said County which is & lyes on the North side of the said James River shall for ever thereafter be called and knowne by the name of Charles City County. And that part of the said County which is & lyes on the South side of the said river shall remain and for ever thereafter be called and knowne by the name Prince George County.

COUNTY HERITAGE & HISTORY

Step into the timeline of a history that begins before human habitation and travels through the development of a region that is today home to major industry and high technology. Experience exhibits and displayed artifacts that continue the story of the land that once knew no boundaries, its people, and its community. Set in the Courthouse of 1883, the Center is unique in its presentation of the County's story and is a great place to begin one's visit to Prince George.

A driving tour through the County is a means of further experiencing the history and heritage that surrounds you. Whether it be an immigrant Czech community or a prosperous plantation, an old dirt road or the site of a rail station, the riverbank or a green field that has been producing crops for generations, Prince George continues to promise the visitor a sense of belonging in its ever-unfolding story.

PLANTATION LIFE

Along the James River, plantations sprang up from the early land grants. Tobacco was the "gold" of the colonies requiring expanses of land and labor to support that economy. Although owner names have changed, many of the plantation homes still stand and a drive along the roads that surround them is truly a step back in time. Note: Unless noted otherwise, sites are privately owned and not open to the public.

Evergreen, a plantation home built by the Ruffin family in early 1800's. Birthplace of Edmund Ruffin, noted agriculturist and secessionist, who worked extensively on revitalizing the depleted soils of Prince George County farms. National Register Property

A late eighteenth century home, Aberdeen, was built by Thomas Cocke. Its unique architectural features include hand-done reeding around windows and doors, unique mantels in each of the main rooms, and a transverse hallway that opens for ventilation at each end. The farmland of Aberdeen was a site of agricultural experiments by Edmund Ruffin. National Register Property

A land patent granted to Captain Francis Eppes at City Point in 1635, the plantation house was built in 1763, Appomattox Plantation. Served as headquarters for General Grant circa 1864-65. Annexed by the City of Hopewell in 1923. Now owned and operated by the National Park Service as a part of the Petersburg National Battlefield. Open daily: 1001 Pecan Avenue, Hopewell, 23860. National Register Property

Land grant in 1616 to John Martin, an original settler. Brandon Plantation features a house built in 1765 by Nathaniel Harrison. Grounds open daily: 23500 Brandon Road, Spring Grove, 23881. National Landmark Property

Upper Brandon, divided from the original Brandon land in 1807, features a main house erected in 1825 with wing additions completed in 1859. National Register Property

Built by Williamson Simmons on Second Swamp near present day Disputanta, Chester Plantation's architecture of Greek Revival was unique in the County circa 1845. It was later owned by local philanthropist and business leader, Remie Arnold. National Register Property

This early grist mill (date unknown) at Lee's Mill Pond was the site of a Civil War skirmish in 1864.

Founded with a 1618 land grant to Sir George Yeadley, Flowerdew Hundred was the site of the first windmill in North America. In 1864, forty percent of the Union Army crossed the river here using a pontoon bridge and landing at Windmill Point. National Register Property

Bland Family Cemetery at the site of the family home on Jordan's Point. Believed to be the burial site of Richard Bland along with thirty-eight other family members. Owned and maintained by the Prince George Regional Heritage Center. Open daily.

HISTORIC CHURCHES

Throughout its history, the churches of Prince George County have served as more than just houses of worship. They have been focal points for a wide variety of community and cultural activities. Come discover their rich and diverse role in shaping our history.

Fourth church structure for Martin's Brandon Parish, established as part of John Martin's land grant, 1616.

Merchant's Hope Church, parish was established in 1657. Building constructed circa 1740 and remains an active parish church, one of the oldest in the nation.

African American Congregation first established in 1865 as Harrison Grove Baptist Church. Founders from First Baptist Church, Harrison Street, Petersburg. A schoolhouse where black children went to elementary grades is also on the property.

Pleasant Grove Baptist Church was organized in 1869 by freed slaves. Services were held under a bush arbor until a small log building could be built. The second church building remains a part of the Prince George Courthouse community, no longer used by its original congregation.

Trinity United Methodist Church, 1883, established as the union of three churches: Warwick, Centerville, and the new Disputanta church.

One of the earliest Czech-Slovak churches in the County, Bethlehem Congregational Church was established in the community known as Begonia in 1894, meeting at the Mistr home. The Church structure was completed in 1898.

Faith Lutheran Church, deeded in 1858 as Mount Sinai Methodist. Congregation of Faith Lutheran purchased building in 1972 after Mount Sinai merged with the congregation of Newville United Methodist Church.

The Church of the Sacred Heart, the remaining symbol of the nucleus of Czech families that settled after the Civil War to form the community of New Bohemia. Today's church structure is the third, the first having been erected in 1906.

Established 1714 as the first Baptist Church in Virginia, Oakland Baptist Church became the Oakland Czech-Slovak Baptist Church in 1923. It remained primarily a Czech speaking group until the 1950's.

Dating back to 1844, the original Sycamore Church was located two miles east of its current location. Skirmishes in the Great Beefsteak Raid took place here. The present day structure was built in 1875, using salvage from the original as much as possible.

Established in 1875 as non-denominational, Rosewood Presbyterian Church became Presbyterian in 1927. Named for the donor of the land (Rosa) as well as for the woods that surrounded the chapel in its early years.

Gregory Memorial Presbyterian Church originally held services in the 1883 County Courthouse. Named for its founding minister, the Rev. William F.C. Gregory, its original sanctuary still stands in the center of the County Courthouse community.

1787 - Parish at Gary's Methodist established as part of the revival of Methodism. Current building dates back to 1880.

1836 - Founding of Shiloh Baptist congregation. Current church building, 1884, stands on original site.

St. Paul's Slovak Lutheran Church Site, Church organized in 1904; services conducted in Slovak tongue. Building taken down in 1997, cemetery remains.

PRINCE GEORGE COUNTY REGIONAL HERITAGE CENTER

6406 Courthouse Rd., Prince George, VA
804-863-0212

www.princegeorgevahistoricalsociety.org

Open daily:

Mon-Fri: 10:00a.m. to 4:00p.m.

Sat-Sun: 1:00p.m. to 4:00p.m

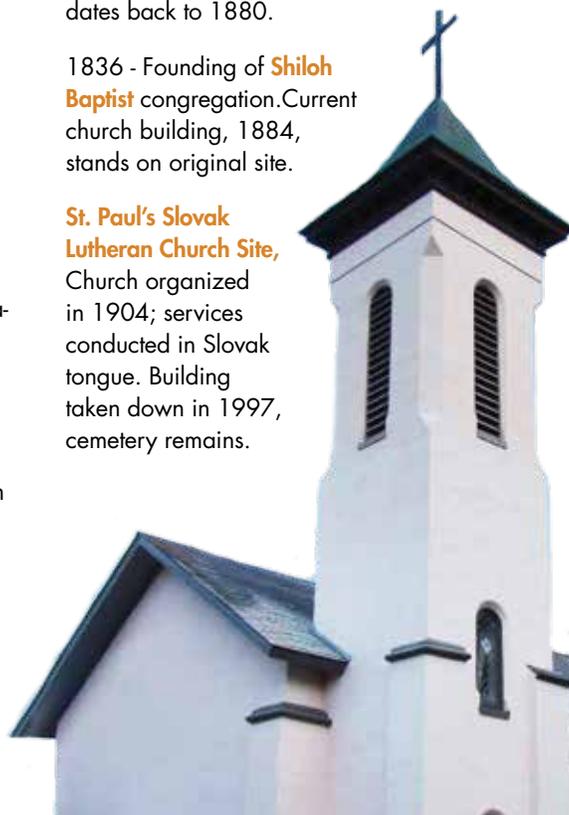

Closed major holidays.

We are a fully accessible facility.

Admission is free.

The Heritage Center tells the story of one of Virginia's oldest and most historic counties. The Center is termed "regional" because its story is truly one of the regions, having at one time stretched to part of today's North Carolina border and the Blue Ridge Mountains. In fact, seventeen counties and five partial counties came from the original Prince George County that was founded in 1703. The Center has become a home for many treasures: a rich and vast regional history; a Cultural Heritage Building with a Czech-Slovak Heritage Gallery that celebrates the life of the Slavic communities; exhibits of other immigration stories, including that of John Mazza, son of Italian immigrants; a genealogy center where cemetery records and other historical documents will be available; as well as links to many resources.

The Center also maintains an exhibition area on the first floor of the County Administration Building, 6602 Courts Drive, Prince George. The Civil War Exhibit, in conjunction with the County's Sesquicentennial Commemoration, is entitled "War Comes to Prince George County".

FAMILY AND MORALE, WELFARE AND RECREATION

FMWR exists to enhance the quality of life, enrich living and working environments, and foster a sense of community for Service Members, Retirees, Family members and civilians.

As an integral part of military life, FMWR provides Soldiers and their Families with fitness, entertainment and family support services on the installation. These facilities and services are open to Active Duty military members, Retirees, DoD Civilians and Family Members. Many events throughout the year are also open to the public. These events include Fort Lee's Oktoberfest and the Fourth at the Fort Celebration.

To mark the Fort Lee Centennial Celebration, FMWR planned some special events in 2017. First, world-renowned artist Larry Selman is producing a print commemorating Sustainment contributions to the Army. These prints will be available for purchase beginning this spring through the Fort Lee Frame Shop. In addition, this year's Fourth at the Fort Independence Day Celebration will include a concert by a major featured artist in addition to a fantastic fireworks display.

To learn more about the Fourth at the Fort concert or how to purchase the commemorative print, visit www.leemwr.com or like us on Facebook at facebook.com/FortLeeFMWR.

1917-1921

MOBILIZATION FOR WAR

April 1917 – War Declared; U.S. War Department purchases 9,000 acres of land in Prince George County for an Army encampment.

June 1917 – Construction of 1,500 buildings and over 15 miles of roadway begins at Camp Lee.

July 1917 – Camp Lee officially established under the command of Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite.

August 1917 – Troops from the 80th Division arrive for training. More than 60,000 doughboys train at the Camp during World War I.

June 1918 – The first soldiers from the 80th Division deploy to France.

September 1918 – The 1918 Influenza Epidemic hits Fort Lee. An estimated 10,000 fell ill and nearly 700 soldiers died.

May 1919 – The 80th Division returns from the war. 1,141 soldiers were killed in action and more than 5,500 wounded.

1919-1920 – Camp Lee serves as a demobilization center for soldiers.

1921 – Camp Lee is formally closed and buildings torn down, with the exception of the “White House,” now known as the Davis House, which served as the 80th Division Headquarters and residence of Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite.

1921-1940 – Much of the land Camp Lee occupied was reverted to the Commonwealth of Virginia, becoming a game preserve. The “White House” remained and became the home of an employee of the Virginia State Game Commission, Gordan R. Davis, and his family from 1927 until Camp Lee again took shape in 1940 under the auspice of World War II.

Another portion of the former Camp Lee was donated to the Petersburg National Military Park, now called Petersburg National Battlefield.

1940-2009

HOME OF THE QUARTE

October 1940 – The U.S. War Department re-establishes Camp Lee as they mobilize soldiers for World War II.

October 1941 – Camp Lee becomes the home of the Quartermaster Replacement Training Center, preparing more than 300,000 soldiers for support roles in WWII.

April 1943 – After Congress approved the development of the Women’s Auxiliary Army Corps in 1942, the first trained recruits arrived at Camp Lee. The 96th WAAC Post Headquarters Company served in administrative occupations at Camp Lee including human resources, signal and post office.

February 1944 – German prisoners of war arrived, housed at Camp Lee until the end of WWII.

May 1946 – The 392nd Army Band is assigned to Camp Lee.

2009-NOW

HOME OF ARMY SUSTAINMENT

QUARTERMASTER

June 1948 – After congress established the Women’s Army Corps as a permanent part of the Regular Army, the WAC Training Center opens at Camp Lee.

April 1950 – Camp Lee is given permanent status by the War Department and renamed Fort Lee.

June 1950 – The start of the Korean War brings tens of thousands of Soldiers to Fort Lee for logistics training.

1961 – Mifflin Hall is constructed and houses the Quartermaster School and Headquarters.

1962 – Kenner Army Hospital opens.

1963 – The U.S. Army Quartermaster Museum opens.

1965 – An urgent need for more Quartermaster Soldiers in Vietnam requires the school to operate a 24-hour training schedule with three shifts.

1973 – Army Logistics Center established.

1990 – Combined Arms Support Command formed from the Army Logistics Center.

May 2001 – The U.S. Army Women’s Museum opens.

January 2009 – The Sustainment Center of Excellence opens and contains the CASCOM, Ordnance, Quartermaster and Transportation headquarters offices.

July 2009 – The Army Logistics University is dedicated, housing the Army Logistics Management College, the Logistics Leader College, the Technical Logistics College and the Logistics Noncommissioned Officer Academy.

September 2009 – After relocating from Aberdeen Proving Ground, MD, the first Ordnance training at Fort Lee begins in the Tactical Support Equipment Department, a 272,000 square-foot facility.

August 2010 – The SCOE is rededicated as Mifflin Hall.

August 2010 – The U.S. Army Transportation Corps moves to Fort Lee.

July 2017 – Fort Lee celebrates “A Century of Support to the Nation.”

HISTORICAL INFORMATION

The history of Fort Lee has three phases beginning with the United States entry into World War I. With the Declaration of War in April 1917, the Army leased 9,000 acres in Prince George County for the construction of one of 32 new cantonments built to train the mobilizing Army. Following a whirlwind of construction, Camp Lee became the home of the 80th “Blue Ridge” Division, which deployed to France in May 1918. A daily population of more than 40,000 troops trained at Camp Lee until the Armistice in November 1918. Serving as a demobilization station until 1921, Camp Lee was dismantled with the land reverting to the Commonwealth of Virginia for use as a forest and game preserve. It would remain so until war again threatened.

In the Army’s build-up to the Second World War, Camp Lee was rebuilt in October 1940. During this period, Camp Lee became the home of the Army Quartermaster Corps. Throughout World War II and in the post-war years, Camp Lee would be associated with Quartermaster training. The camp was also briefly home to the Women’s Army Corps Training Center and became the home of the Army’s Aerial Delivery and Petroleum and Water Delivery training – all vital functions in the post-war Army. Camp Lee became a permanent Army facility in 1950, when it was re-designated as Fort Lee and continued to serve as the home of the Quartermaster. Sixty-five years later, Fort Lee’s longtime training mission was greatly expanded with the 2005 Base Realignment and Closure Act. BRAC 2005 signaled the beginning of the third phase in Fort Lee’s history. Under the legislation, Fort Lee was designated as the Army’s Sustainment Center of Excellence, which included bringing its Ordnance and Transportation Schools together with the Quartermaster School under the umbrella of the U.S. Army Combined Arms Support Command.

The U.S. Army Ordnance School arrived at Fort Lee in 2009 to occupy its newly-constructed campus – a $722 million, 27-building complex featuring highly modernized training capabilities. As part of this transformation, the Ordnance Mechanical Maintenance School at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland and the Ordnance Munitions and Electronic Maintenance School at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama were relocated to Fort Lee. In addition, the U.S. Army Transportation School relocated to Fort Lee from Fort Eustis, Virginia and the Army Logistics Management College grew into what is now the Army Logistics University.

In addition to a new headquarters building for the Combined Arms Support Command, new barracks and housing facilities were constructed across the post during BRAC 2005 implementation, adding to Fort Lee’s expansion. The Department of Defense also increased its on-post footprint, as BRAC realignment brought the headquarters for Defense Contract Management Agency to Fort Lee from Fort Belvoir, Virginia and allowed expansion of the Defense Commissary Agency headquarters offices.

Today, Fort Lee is the third largest training center in the Army, training more than 10,000 students at any given time. With a daily on-post population in excess of 27,000, the Soldiers and civilians at Fort Lee are working together to prepare the Army for the future.

Hours of Operation: Monday – Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Since 1775 Quartermaster Soldiers have provided logistical support to the Army. Their stories are told in the museum that also contains such important artifacts as the Nation's first 50-star flag, Patton's World War II jeep, General Eisenhower's field quarters, and General Grant's saddle. Recently the museum opened a new permanent exhibit, "Parade to Battle: The Evolution of Army Uniforms" featuring key pieces from the museum's rich collection. On display rare sample uniforms that highlight the role of the Quartermaster Corps in designing, producing, and supplying Army clothing from 1842-1963.

In 2016 the museum launched a new website that showcases exhibits, collections, and educational programs in an engaging way. This new interface provides an ideal platform to host future digital enablers to include Apps, 3D technology, videos, and virtual tours that the museum staff is looking forward to launching soon.

Check us out on facebook.com/usarmywomensmuseum

Hours of Operation: Monday – Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Or by appointment for special programs and research

The U.S. Army Women's Museum, located at Fort Lee, VA is the only museum in the world dedicated to Army women. It originated at Fort McClellan, Alabama in 1955 until it was moved to Fort Lee, reopening in May 2001. The Museum honors women's contributions to the Army telling their stories with interactive exhibits and videos throughout the gallery.

The U.S. Army Women's Museum serves as an educational institution, providing military history training and instruction to soldiers, veterans and the civilian community. The museum is the custodian and repository of artifacts and archival material pertaining to the service of women across all branches and organizations of the U.S. Army from inception to the present day. The museum collects, preserves, manages, interprets and exhibits these unique artifacts for training and educational outreach.

The museum is free and offers guided tours, film viewings, an art gallery, distance learning programs, and a kid's corner.

Prince George operates a producer-grower farmers' market. We are dedicated to building a sustainable, regional foodshed and to educating people about the benefits of sustainable agriculture. Our Farmers' Market emphasizes the direct connection between local food choices and the quality and health of our environment and daily lives. We support farmers/growers who cultivate the land using sustainable agricultural practices or raise livestock using humane and sustainable practices.

By providing these farmers/growers with direct markets for their products, Prince George helps sustain the regional farm economy and helps ensure the future of farming in our area. Open Saturdays 8am-12pm and Wednesdays 4pm-7pm during the growing season.

FORT LEE COMMUNITY SERVICE

A home to many of the installation's service members, civilian employees, retirees, veterans and their families, Prince George County is not just a geographic neighbor to Fort Lee, but a true partner in every sense. The strong relationship between the installation and Prince George County is founded on a mutual respect for – and obligation to – America's military service members, their families and the communities that support them.

As part of this ongoing partnership, Fort Lee enjoys supporting the county with both official support from its units and volunteer support from its many personnel who understand the great importance of community service. For example:

- During "Music in our Schools," the 392nd Army Band performed for 22 schools and more than 7,000 students in Central Virginia – 2,300 of those in Prince George alone.
- Through Fort Lee's Adopt-A-School program, Soldiers from military units provide area schools with support to their literacy, career, lunch buddy, mentor and other programs. To date, nearly every elementary and secondary school has been adopted by a Fort Lee unit.
- The support from the Army post extends into personal time, as well. In 2016, Fort Lee volunteers provided 134,454 hours of volunteer service to the Central Virginia region – many of those dedicated to helping Prince George community support programs and non-profit organizations.
- Finally, as the Prince George partner in Fort Lee's Community Connect program, leaders of the U.S. Army Transportation School regularly attend and participate in county events. Last year, they coordinated guest speakers, color guards, military displays and more for 35 events there.

As Fort Lee celebrates a Century of Support to the Nation in 2017, we march forward with the hope of spending another 100 years supporting our neighbors and partners in Prince George County.
